1 Map layout 5. The Uprising started as an uprising of the Chinese against their oppressors. There was also the unofficial mod Red Alert 3 - Uprising. A story by Amber Kelly. I must confess I've been intrigued by the reports about a new health board in Dublin 1. Apparently their objective is to control obesity and improve the lifestyle of the public in the targeted area. Well, my guess is that it's just another failed experiment, but I'll let them talk for themselves. "Gardai have been called to a fast food restaurant in Dublin city after a woman was allegedly beaten and robbed by four teenagers," The Irish Mirror reports. The Irish Mirror: "The woman was allegedly locked in the restaurant and beaten by the teenager when she refused to hand over her money." The Irish Mirror: "The woman was allegedly locked in the restaurant and beaten by the teenager when she refused to hand over her money." Now, to be clear, I don't care what they do for the public. No matter how much you protect yourself with a ban on junk food, some people are going to eat junk food, no matter what you do. Just the other day I was thinking about our Irish cousins who are overweight. I was struck by how many of them are part of a new generation of young adults who moved to our country after the economic crisis, leaving their mothers' and fathers' homes in Ireland (and many were in jobs that didn't exist) and moving to areas that had a degree of affluence, or thought they did. Like the child of my parents' generation, they didn't want to marry within their community or continue the traditions and customs of their people, so they moved to places like New York, London, Paris, Italy, Germany, Canada and the other places where they could pursue their romantic life and begin a new life. They just so happened to be kids when they moved, so they didn't really understand what was going on, but they were happy to be there, making new friends and getting a chance to try on a different way of life that they hadn't considered before. Like most teenagers, these people didn't care much about the "normal" things that happened around them, including jobs and school and parents and other young people and old people. They thought of themselves as
